CATALOGUE 2023

A close-up photograph of two glass bowls filled with colored sugar. The bowl on the left is green and contains a mix of white and green sugar. The bowl on the right is blue and contains pink and blue sugar. Both bowls have a silver fork stuck into the sugar. They are placed on a colorful, patterned rug with red, yellow, and blue tones.

CLEARVIEWBOOKS

We are delighted to introduce our 2023 list which once again, is a carefully curated offering of intelligent, authored, beautifully produced books. At Clearview we see no reason to cut corners, what you'll get are the best photographers, the finest information from experts in their field and world class designers making sure the book layouts look fabulous. There's no reason why a coffee table book shouldn't be a good read as well.

This coming year sees an extraordinary range of titles, from an effervescent cocktail book by Sam de Teran with hauntingly magical illustrations by Isabelle Feliu - a real departure from the dark and moody photographic books on drinks currently out there - to a cookery book from Great British Chefs - the biggest website for food lovers in the UK. Our box set containing Picasso's lost sketchbook with accompanying book analysing the importance of those sketches, is a collector's item.

We are, as always, lucky to work with the very best in their fields, producing quality content that stays in print and will be relevant for years to come.

GREAT
CHEFS

30 of the UK's top chefs showcase the diversity and breadth of Britain's culinary landscape through 50 exclusive recipes. From gastropubs to Michelin starred restaurants, expect everything from traditional Malaysian, Chinese and Indian dishes to Japanese, Mexican and modern British food. Featured chefs include Andrew Wong, Lisa Goodwin-Allen, Tommy Banks, Roberta Hall-McCarron, Ramael Scully, Stosi Madi, Chet Sharma and Endo Kazutoshi.

The book is aimed at the experienced home cook, who is familiar with fine dining and keen to experiment with new and unusual flavour combinations to increase their culinary repertoire. Fresh, quality ingredients will be a commonplace element in their kitchens, to achieve the best results possible.

Great British Chefs was founded in 2010 and is the fastest growing food website in the UK. With 10,000 recipes available, the website draws in over 30 million page views per annum, and has had over 200K sign ups since its relaunch 3 years ago.

BY SAM DE TERAN
ILLUSTRATIONS BY ISABELLE FELIU

This is the sort of lighthearted yet elegant cocktail book you might give to your best girlfriends, in which the carefree, holiday atmosphere of a tropical island, (perfect for a hot-girl summer), is beautifully realised here. Specially commissioned watercolour illustrations by internationally acclaimed artist, Isabelle Feliu, invoke an enchanted, dreamlike setting where magical things are just about to happen....

40 handcrafted drinks, rigorously tested by a professional mixologist range from the classic Vodka Martini, Margarita and Daiquiri to the newly created Trophy Wife, Cucumberita and Samantha. The recipes are easy to follow, requiring no special equipment and offer many 'skinnier' alternatives such as agave syrups, coconut milk and fresh fruit juices.

Sam de Teran is famous as a fashion, interior and product designer, her most recent work being the remodel of the family's 5-star hotel, Cobbler's Cove in Barbados. Sam's passion for artisanal rums and local, seasonal ingredients inspired her to develop these recipes for a wider audience.

BY HENRIK LISCHKE

Ottolenghi, Soho House, LaDoubleJ, Swarovski, Cabana Magazine and Robin Birley are just some of the high profile brands that have jumped into the homewares market recently, joining established names such as Emma Bridgewater, Brickett Davda and William Yeoward. This is because table settings - creating beautiful and inspiring arrangements for entertaining at home - are now a global trend.

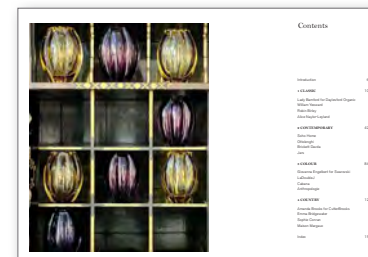

The book covers in depth interviews with 12 designers, who are at the forefront of how to entertain beautifully. China, glass, cutlery and linen and how to successfully mix and match them are presented in each designer's signature style, with feature pages on what inspires them at home and what sort of food they like to offer their guests. Their homeware ranges are available to buy in the UK, the USA and Europe.

Henrik Lischke studied at the London College of Fashion and is currently senior fashion features editor at Grazia magazine, writing on emerging lifestyle trends. Prior to that he was the commerce editor at Vogue.

BY CLAIRE & DOMINIC
SKINNER

FOREWORD BY
THOMAS HODKINSON

Architect Dominic Skinner and his interior designer wife Claire are the dream team in Corfu and the surrounding Ionian and Aegean islands, having designed and developed many of the most luxurious villas and hotels on them over the past 14 years. Corfu Living showcases their design expertise for the first time, and with photography by internationally acclaimed Clive Nichols, the book is an inspirational journey through the magical houses and gardens they have created.

Divided into four sections of Landscape, Town, Classic and Modern the book leads us through Durrellian olive groves and wildflower meadows, through Corfu Old Town with its medieval fortifications and Venetian arcades and onto the coastline. All the influences that inspire Dominic and Claire are here, transformed into interior and exterior spaces of uncluttered serenity, surrounded by spectacular scenery. These are dream houses, in a dream landscape, and to quote an abundance of luxury travel magazines, Greece is the word.

BY PROFESSOR GAVIN
PARKINSON

A tiny sketchbook dated March 1924 was part of a cache of artworks stolen from Picasso's studio in the South of France in 1970, by his electrician Pierre le Guennec. This hoard remained undiscovered for thirty years, until in 2022, a selection was put up for auction at Sotheby's, once the body of the collection had been returned to Picasso's heirs.,

The importance of the sketchbook, in terms of foreshadowing Picasso's artistic thoughts and direction, is expertly analysed in a new book, where the images are also matched with finished artworks from Picasso's oeuvre in the following decades. The book is packaged in a linen bound clamshell box, with a reproduction of the sketchbook in its original size, as a limited edition of 1000 copies. This will be a unique, collector's item.

Gavin Parkinson is the Professor of European Modernism at the Courtauld Institute of Art, London. Previous books include Robert Rauschenberg and Surrealism: Art History, Sensibility' and War (Bloomsbury 2023).

From the crisp shapes of a traditional topiary garden to the anarchy of a meadow full of seed heads, there is beauty to be found in a winter garden. Exquisite photography by Andrew Montgomery highlights twelve iconic gardens showing winter's ability to enhance shape, texture and structure as beautifully as in the summer. Thoughtful text and planting advice from Clare Foster, gardens editor at House & Garden magazine, offers a satisfying conclusion to each chapter.

THE GARDENS AT ROUSHAM

Rousham is one of England's most important gardens, representing the first phase of English landscape design, remaining as its designer William Kent left it with many of its 18th century features intact. Rousham's gardens enjoy an enormous following with Monty Don describing it as 'the greatest masterpiece of English gardening – a flawless work of genius.' Francis Hamel is artist-in-residence at Rousham and has curated an equally flawless collection of his recent works on the gardens in their entirety.

EVERGREEN

In his third book, Scandinavian chef Mikkel Karstad casts his unique vision over vegetarian cooking, setting the bar for his conceptual yet simple ideas even higher. Here Mikkel has created recipes for vegetables that are grown all year round, from cabbage, broccoli and Brussels sprouts in winter to peas, carrots and beetroot in summer. Chapters are built around each specific vegetable, interspersed with Mikkel's foraging trips to the forests, islands and green fields of his native Denmark.

GONE FISHING

A lifetime spent fishing and foraging in the fjords and shores of Scandinavia inspired Mikkel Karstad's career as a chef, and his love of seafood is shared in this collection of simple, healthy recipes. Underfished species are highlighted; garfish, zander and razor shell clams together with unusual edibles such as heather, red sorrel, dog roses and pine shoots. Shot on location at sea, on the beach and by the river this is an open-air, mindful and tranquil addition to the genre.

Chapters in the book are based around 14 favourite ingredients which form the basis of 80 original recipes. From the perfect octopus salad to ways to make the most of fennel and pumpkin, many of these ingredients are at the economic end of the food spectrum, and often underused in everyday cooking. Mikkel Karstad is one of Denmark's leading forager-chefs and food stylists, having been a founder consultant at NOMA, he also trained under Gordon Ramsay and Pierre Kaufmann in London.

QUIET PATTERN

Abigail Edwards

Gentle Design for Interiors

Quiet Pattern

Creating a peaceful sanctuary in which to retreat and recharge from daily life is an essential requirement for our homes, but this should not exclude pattern. Beginning with pattern's historical roots and close links to nature, contemporary, artisanal designers from around the world reveal their inspirations and living spaces. Practical advice is given as the author shows us how pattern works, room by room, to create interiors that are both delicate and magical.

The Arts & Crafts designs found in Singapore's famous black and white houses remain as inspirational today as they did in the early 20th century. Over 23 buildings feature, from the world famous Raffles Hotel and the High Commissioner's residence to private houses. A dazzling cornucopia of styles is revealed, mixing modern and contemporary with period and traditional, providing rich source material for the East meets West design enthusiast. A must-have addition to any architectural or interior design library.

ARCHITECTURE BY HAND

Spencer Fung's architecture has always drawn its inspiration from nature and the countryside, and his designs for Daylesford & Bamford spas and stores have realised the perfect relationship between the outside and the interior. By commissioning small artisanal firms, he has helped revitalize many dying crafts for modern living, and is meticulous in his use of recycled and upcycled materials wherever possible. Wood, stone, earth and metal are his preferred materials, being organic and natural.

Alex Michaelis and Tim Boyd have established a reputation for simple, elegant architecture with an emphasis on sustainable, environmentally sound solutions. Their clients include Soho House, Brewdog, Byron, Tom Aikens and Cabana while their practice has expanded globally to the Williamsburg Hotel, New York, safari lodges for &Beyond throughout Africa and commissions in Hong Kong, Istanbul and Germany.

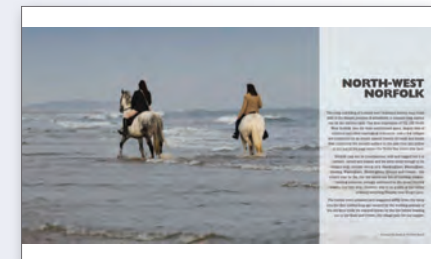

As the oldest, inhabited, moated house in England, New Hall in Sutton Coldfield has seen it all. Owned by several families, including the Earls of Warwick, whose fortunes rose and fell during the social, political and economic upheavals over the centuries, this is England's history told in miniature. New Hall is now a luxury hotel, yet the ghosts of the past, and there are a few, still linger in the quiet corridors and ancient, yew lined gardens.

'No hour of life is wasted that is spent in the saddle' declared Winston Churchill, and this equestrian odyssey across England reveals a wealth of breathtaking landscapes, ancient villages and historic houses. 12 specially crafted rides lasting 2-3 days range from Norfolk to Cornwall, from the Yorkshire dales to the Shropshire hills. Overnight stays along the way include private country estates, manor houses, farmhouses and cottages, giving an exclusive view of the real England, along pathways far away from the tourist routes.

On a trip to the Aegean Island of Lesbos in 2005, Claire found a connection to Greece that led to a new way of life. Taking a wrong turn in the car, she ended up in an authentic Greek village, which she immediately fell in love with. She set about finding a house to make her own, followed by months of renovations led by her partner Matthew and a team of builders to restore a former Priest's house into a perfect Greek Island Home.

This anniversary edition of 50 years of Mustique island as a luxury holiday destination charts the history of beautiful people doing beautiful things in a beautiful place—from the houses they built to the parties they gave. The economic development of the island has also provided a blueprint for luxury holiday destinations worldwide, and the history of how the Mustique Company came into being, helped by some of the world's most powerful businessmen, is a fascinating case study of hard work, failure and success.

After 20 years as the Creative Director of GQ Magazine in the UK, Jo Hambro went through her vast collection of polaroids covering every photoshoot she had directed, and published this fascinating account of what it's really like to be a fashion stylist. Working with top photographers including Peter Lindbergh, Paolo Roversi, Guzman, David LaChapelle and countless others, and with a foreword from her good friends Sir Elton John and David Furnish, Jo's odyssey through the Nineties and Noughties also provides an invaluable resource for culture historians.

The unique gardens created by Humphrey Waterfield and Nancy Tennant provided a personal Eden and refuge during the upheavals of two World Wars. Theirs was an unconventional relationship; a deep, platonic love between an aesthete and a woman ten years older than he which overcame personal trauma, loss and family disapproval. Sarah Barclay skilfully brings to life the healing power of the natural world and its ability to bring out the best of human love.

IF THE WAR COMES

IF THE WAR COMES

Ann Mari Wallenberg

In March 1940 ten-year old Ann Marie Wallenberg found herself part of a daring escape across occupied Europe. Leaving neutral Sweden as the Nazis invaded Norway, she and her mother travelled by any means possible through the horrors of Stalin's Russia, Mussolini's Italy and into France. Having survived the Luftwaffe bombing their train to Calais, arrival in Britain was short-lived. As her stepfather was on Hitler's deathlist, evacuation to America, across the U-Boat infested Atlantic was the next plan. Would Ann Marie ever return home?
